Optimizing the Financial Burden of Robot-Assisted Radical Prostatectomy

Zaeem Lone, Ahmed Hussein Mohammad Durrani, Ahmed Elsayed, Naif Aldhaam, Zachary Toner, Zachary Kurbiel, Aaron Gorsline, Zhe Jing, Karen Sniadecki, Khurshid Guru

Roswell Park Comprehensive Cancer Center, Buffalo, NY
Introduction

Analyze variable costs of RARP

Results

- Retrospective cases (n=40) versus Prospective cases (after cost reduction plan) (n=32).

- No significant difference in patient and disease characteristics.

- No significant difference in operative outcomes, blood loss and complications.

Conclusion

- Our cost reduction plan resulted in a net saving of $705 per case, without compromising perioperative outcomes.